Bocce's move to Vale Centre has been a boon

BERND FRANKE
Postmedia Network

Absence made the heart grow a lot fonder when the Port Colborne Bocce Club was sidelined for two years during construction of Vale Health and Wellness Centre.

Instead of out of sight, out of mind, the number of players competing in the indoor summer sport incorporating a new clubhouse and six bocce courts into the design of the publicly funded multi-use facility underscored that membership is — and always has been — open to “any and all in the community.”

“People believed it was a private club, that it was something they couldn’t join. That was never the case,” Mauro Nuccitelli, the club’s vice-president, said at Vale Centre’s open house last Saturday.

There has been a 180-degree shift in public perception since the centre opened, and bocce returned to east Port Colborne, in 2013. Membership has more than tripled, to the current total of 329 from 105 in 2010, the club’s final year at its former location, also on Elizabeth Street.

Now there’s even a waiting list of people eager to take part in men’s, women’s and mixed leagues. Demand exceeding supply is a first for a club that was established in 1984.

“By having more participants, people started thinking, ‘Hey, maybe we should try this bocce,’” said Nuccitelli, a 53-year-old Port Colborne native who has been with the club since 2007.

To the delight of longtime bocce players, the explosion in membership has nearly offset the higher operating costs of leasing a kitchen-equipped clubhouse and the adjacent courts from the municipality. Annual fees have increased to $50 from $40 per member to make up the shortfall.

Since the club’s lease covers the entire year, and not just that May-to-September bocce season, renting out a licensed clubhouse capable of seating about 70 for banquets and parties provides an additional revenue stream.

Unlike hockey fans, who were used to attending games at the former main arena on Westside Road, and swimmers, accusted to Port Colborne’s only public indoor pool being next to Lakeshore Catholic High School on Janet Street, bocce players didn’t have to move all that far to take advantage of their new digs.

While the 13-by-91-foot courts run east-west instead of north-south and a permanent clubhouse has replaced two trailers, the Port Colborne Bocce Club is “right where it was” before ground was broken for the community centre.

“The city came to us and asked, ‘What do you guys want to know? We need the land,’” Nuccitelli said.

He pointed out the club’s former location was also on property leased from the city.

“I think the payment was something like a dollar a year. Now, we pay a lot more,” he said with a laugh.

A bocce demonstration was among the free activities offered at the open house. Public skating, swimming and a chance to work out on gym equipment at the YMCA located in the building also were available, as were face-painting, cooking demonstrations for children.

Vale Day was co-sponsored by the City of Port Colborne and Vale Canada Inc., one of the city’s top employers and the company that purchased mining rights to the multi-use facility.

Vale displays included ore samples and information cards that gave people an idea of what it’s like to operate a massive drill to bore holes for a explosives in an underground rock face.

Vale manager Matt Chernyev said the simulation is like the training drill operators would receive in a computer lab before going below the surface.

“Technology has made mining much safer. In my father’s day, they would have used jack-hammers to drill the holes,” he said. “Now, they’re in an air-conditioned cab of a drill rig, far away from the rock face.”

Regional council defers affordable bus pass move

DON FRASER
Postmedia Network

A move to push down the price of a monthly Niagara Region Transit pass for eligible riders was deferred by councilors last Thursday.

Council had earlier approved it at a July council meeting to green light an eight-month pilot project.

It would reduce the price of a monthly transit pass to $50 from $160 for eligible riders.

That most recent deferral, approved 18-6 by councillors, is until such time as future service delivery and governance of inter-municipal transit has been determined.

That vote follows a Sept. 6 recommendation from Niagara

Region’s public works committee that the implementation of an affordable pass program is the responsibility of the Inter-Municipal Transit Working Group, he deferred.

Among concerns in its recommendation to defer the pass program is that the move would have a negative effect on local transit services and cause “significant financial loss to local transit operations in St. Catharines, Niagara Falls and Welland.”

St. Catharines Mayor Walter Sendzik, chair of the transit committee, said there are agencies that currently provide some subsidized transit for people in need.

The committee said preliminary discussion with agencies suggest it would be difficult for any one of them to be involved with income testing, sale and distribution of the passes, due to the increased number of passes anticipated to be sold at $50.

Selina Volpati and Andy Petrowski pushed especially forcefully for the reduction for low-income riders.

“To kick this can forward by another six months is to say we don’t really care ... about those folks, and we can wait,” said Petrowski.

St. Catharines Mayor Walter Sendzik, chair of the transit committee, said there are agencies that currently provide some subsidized transit for people in need.

“We’re trying to get to a longer-term solution,” Sendzik told councillors. “You’re essentially saying (by agreeing with the $50 pass) we design policy from top down, and if it affects your operations, that doesn’t matter to us.

“Please allow this (current) process to move forward.”

IN BRIEF

Wainfleet arena renovations delayed

Renovations that have been taking place at the Wainfleet arena have been delayed for up to five weeks, says township operations manager Richard Nan.

The reason for the delay is the installation of specialized pressure valves that are needed for the installation process in the shower facilities of dressing rooms.

Typical fall ahead for Niagara

NIKE SBATISTA/POSTMEDIA NETWORK

The fall season in Niagara from September through to November should be a good one for hiking, biking, and getting outdoors says a meteorologist with The Weather Network.

RAY SPITERI
Postmedia Network

Niagara residents should expect a comfortable fall season, says Nadine Powell, a meteorologist with The Weather Network.

"We are expecting (temperatures) to be above seasonal. In terms of precipitation, we are expecting that should come in more or less seasonal," she said.

"The only thing is that just across the border ... we're expecting below normal precipitation ... so we're almost on that cusp where we could either fall below normal in terms of precipitation, or just around normal."

The Weather Network has released its fall forecast, predicting conditions for September through November.

Powell said seasonal fall temperatures should be about 15°C, while average precipitation should be about 240 millilitres.

"Typically in November we get a little bit of snowfall, about 10 centimetres or so. But most of it comes in the form of rainfall, average of about 240, so we should expect right around that," she said.

"If we're going above seasonal (temperatures) by about two or three degrees, that puts us in the high teens. I think most people would appreciate that, especially for the first half of the season, where we're expected to have a little bit of warmth."

Powell said fall hones well for people who enjoy going outside.

"Viewing the colours, and being in Niagara, you have the waterfalls, and stuff we like to do outdoors ... I think we'll be able to enjoy that."

The Weather Network also released its winter preview.

Although weather experts have yet to "dive into great detail," initial indicators show Niagara will experience a "more or less seasonal" winter when it comes to temperatures, averaging around the freezing mark.

Powell said at this time it's "a bit more difficult" to determine what sort of winter precipitation Niagara residents can expect.

"We came out of a very strong El Nino, and it seems though the trend is heading into a La Niña ... although we're not expecting that La Niña will be a strong La Niña," she said.

"So definitely (this winter) shouldn't be the same as last year. Now, of course, that's not to say that we won't get cold spells, but ... by the time it's all said and done, hopefully we won't be remembering the really cold ones. Eventually it should average out."

Workers surprised by find

ALLAN BENNER
Postmedia Network

It wasn't a mastodon or any other prehistoric creature, but the remains of an old white elephant were unearthed this summer by workers adding new water and sewer lines to Niagara Street in Welland.

Dozens of railway ties have been dug up during the ongoing construction project in the city, the remnants of a century-old trolley track that was only in service for about six months before it was abandoned long ago.

Local historian Terry Hughes said the railway ties were part of the Niagara, Welland and Lake Erie Railway built in about 1913 to extend a trolley service along Niagara Street.

However, after the tracks were installed, the railway company soon learned that the trolley cars in use at the time were too heavy to be supported the old Alexandria Swing Bridge, which used to cross the canal where the Main Street Bridge now stands.

"So the line sat there for years, not doing much of anything," Hughes said.

It wasn't until 1922 that a trolley car was developed that was light enough for the bridge, and the tracks were finally pressed into service, carrying passengers who paid five cents per trip. But it didn't last long.

"The problem was the car would take a half an hour to do its scheduled run up and down Niagara Street," Hughes said. "Well, people felt they could walk faster to get downtown than wait for the trolley."

After about six months, the little-used trolley service on Niagara Street was discontinued and the tracks again sat unused.

Hughes said he still remembers from his childhood when new pavement was being added to Niagara Street. Although the old rails were removed at the time, he said workers just poured concrete over the wooden railway ties that supported the rails.

"And now, with the them doing a total reconstruction of the street, they're finding these ties encased in concrete," he said.

The work currently underway by Provincial Construction is part of a $5-million city and Niagara Region project to add watermains and sewer lines to

I've been thinking about a short Bible study on Psalm 23

PASTOR MICHAEL MELEG
Faith & St. Peter's Lutheran Churches,
Dunville & Port Colborne

"The Lord is my shepherd; I shall not want." What comforting words, because the Lord, the one true God, Jesus Christ, is my Shepherd. I truly lack no good thing in both body and spirit.

"I shall not want," means that with Jesus and in Him (Philippians 3:9) I have everything I need. Not necessarily everything I want, but everything I truly need, which is something only God knows, and only God can provide. As a shepherd provides for his sheep, so Christ our saviour, the good Shepherd, provides over us, protects, comforts, feeds and richly blesses us.

Sheep are helpless and would surely die without a shepherd. Sheep are simple and weak creatures, unable to find their way to good pasture, good water and completely unable to defend themselves. They can not identify dangerous paths or dangerous creatures which seek to devour them. However, sheep are often very good at hearing and responding to the shepherd's voice, and closely follow him. Jesus says that's the way we are, "And when [the shepherd] brings out his own sheep, he goes before them; and the sheep follow him, for they know his voice ... I am the Good Shepherd; and I know My sheep, and am known by My own." (John 10:14)

On the one hand, true faith hears and follows the voice of our shepherd, hears His word and follows Him alone. On the other hand, true faith avoids and runs away from the strange and alluring voices of false and deceptive shepherds. Even so, sheep do wonder off. More comfort is given to us by the knowledge that our good shepherd, Jesus, will go after us when we stray (Luke 14:4) and will take care of the young, the weak and the injured. He promises to carry us in His arms and nurture us so we will grow stronger day by day (Isaiah 40:11; Jeremiah

Return of the Fort Saskatchewan Sheep flock in Fort Saskatchewan.

"He makes me lie down in green pastures."

"Beside the little brook we are surrounded by so many deserts, wastelands of teachings and empty words which can not satisfy. The devil, the world and our own sinful flesh never cease to entice and lure the sheep away from the beautiful and healthy pasture of His church, where He provides the thick, green, life-giving grass of His holy word properly preached and taught, and His precious sacraments rightly administered. Here we rest, here we are happy and in Paradise, for our shepherd is with us."

"He feeds and makes us grow in the true faith to life everlasting. And He says to us, 'As newborn babes, desire the pure milk of the word, that you may grow thereby. If indeed you have tasted that the Lord is gracious'" (1 Peter 2:2-3) We have tasted of His green pasture and of His still waters. He is gracious to us. It is only by His loving grace and mercy that He has placed us in His pasture where we are truly fed with good things, therefore we should continually thank and give God the holy name.

"He leads me beside the still waters."

In this pasture where we are satisfied and grow strong in the Faith, there are still waters of refreshment. We are fed and sustained in both body and soul in Christ's word and sacraments through which He Himself comes to us and dwells within us together with the Holy Spirit, yet we are still in this sinful world. In this green pasture the sun will beat down, days of affliction, sorrow, suffering, material trials and tribulations, including spiritual torment because of our sins.

Jesus said, "These things I have spoken to you, that in Me you may have peace. In the world you will have tribulation, but be of good cheer; you have overcome the world." (John 16:33) Because Jesus has overcome the world, tribulation can not drag us down and defeat us. For when we are brought low, when we are attacked and pounded in body and soul, Jesus leads us to the ever-bountiful refreshment of His word, holy baptism and absolution. Jesus has made each one of us a sheep of His fold (a precious child of God) through His word and holy baptism and refreshes us through the forgiveness of our sins. "For you are all sons of God through faith in Christ Jesus. For as many of you as were baptized into Christ have put on Christ" (Galatians 3:26-27) Wearing Christ as a garment, having been washed in His blood, we are renewed and protected from the rays of affliction which beat down upon us.

Even as it is impossible to truly know God and rightly to believe in Him without the Word, so it is impossible to find comfort and peace without His word. We, forgiven sinners live the baptismal life in Christ in His holy church. We, who drink the refreshing water of baptism and are covered in the water of baptism will suffer affliction and suffering in this world, but our dear Lord, the good shepherd, speaks kindly to us, "providing all our needs and refreshes us with His word and sacraments. He restores my soul."

"What kind of pasture, green grass and cool water are they? They are the kind which heal, strengthen and uplift the soul. When we are parched and burning under the just judgment of God because of our sins, we are told, 'Repent therefore and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out, so that times of refreshing may come from the presence of the Lord'" (Acts 3:19)

"He is faithful and just to forgive our sins and to cleanse us from all unrighteousness" (1 John 1:9). As David says in another psalm, "Blessed is he whose transgression is forgiven, whose sin is covered. Blessed is the man to whom the Lord does not impute iniquity, and in whose spirit there is no deceit. When I kept silent, my bones grew old through my groaning all the day long. For day and night Your hand was heavy upon me; my vitality was turned into the drought of death. In my affliction of my sin to You, and my iniquity I have not hidden. I said, 'I will confess my transgressions to the Lord,' and You forgave the iniquity of my sin (Psalm 32:1-5).

Also, when we are scorched by the heat of trial and tribulation He comforts us with His soothng presence and eternal promises. When we are brought low He gives us to drink of His water, for He says, "Whosoever drinks of the water that I shall give him will become in him a fountain of water springing up into everlasting life" (John 4:14).

This is the forgiveness of our sins and the one true faith. Faith receives all His gifts and clings to His word and promises with love and trust.

Police investigating pot farm

ALLAN BENNER
Postmedia Network

A Port Colborne greenhouse used for growing medical marijuana — robbed at gunpoint earlier last week — is being investigated after police say it exceeded production limits by thousands of plants worth about $1.5 million.

Niagara Regional Police say the greenhouse at 462 Pinecrest Rd. has three medical marijuana licences limiting production to about 400 plants.

But police announced last Thursday morning that 3,400 marijuana plants were found growing in the greenhouse when a search warrant was executed there last Tuesday.

The number of marijuana plants exceeded the amount allowed to grow by almost 3,000 plants," the NRP said in a statement. "The fact that the operation had almost 3,000 plants over the allowed amount, once processed, would yield a profit of over $1.5 million."

No injuries were reported.

A woman who answered the phone at the greenhouses last Tuesday said, "We're OK, and that's all I can tell you."

Phone calls left at the business last Thursday were not returned.

In light of the greenhouse investigation as well as the robbery, Port Colborne Ward 4 Coun. Barb Butters said he's hoping it could mean an end to the marijuana being produced at the facility.

"I certainly would hope that something is done that this can't go on again in that location," he said.

"Nobody wants that in their about 4 a.m. last Monday, when owners of the facility, which had formerly been known as Mulehouse Greenhouses, were held at gunpoint.

"This makes locations such as this one very vulnerable to the criminal subculture," the NRP said. "The current robbery investigation at the Pinecrest Road location is a priority for us."

Police say no arrests have been made and their investigation is ongoing. They do, however, anticipate making arrests in the near future.

Police began investigating the facility after the armed robbery occurred there at an e-mail she sent to residents and The Tribune.

"This may be what will finally shuts it down," she said.

Bodner said the greenhouse was not among the larger marijuana growing facilities licensed by Health Canada for the production of the plant, but instead was part of an earlier plan that allowed people with licences for growing their own medical marijuana plants to team up with other licence holders to grow the plants.

"We have to be careful not to confuse this new type of licences with the old type of licences. Everybody tends to lump those into one pot," Bodner said. "Sorry for the choice of words."

While the large scale licensed facilities are subject to "absolutely strict regulations and inspections," he said that doesn't apply to the type of facility running in Port Colborne.

"These guys are in the wild west," he said.

Bodner said he'd like to determine how often criminal activity occurs in this type of marijuana growing operations.

Although the issue wasn't listed on the agenda for Monday's Port Colborne city council meeting, Bodner planned to ask city staff to develop a report on the issue.

For some time arrested and charged with numerous offences related to Monday's robbery, but police believe an addition five people involved in the heist are still at large.

are going so well, Nowrouzi said, the company is considering adding additional runs throughout the day.

However, a decision is unlikely to be made for at least another month until more "concrete numbers" are available.

"They added flights, which would not immediately require fleet expansion, would also take place during the week to help accommodate the demand being seen," Nowrouzi said.

Weekends are not yet on the radar.

To continue to grow its clientele base, Greater Toronto Airways is using a number of outlets to help advertise the service.

"We're on billboards all around Ontario and on the Gardiner Expressway, so people sitting in traffic get to see us quite a bit," Nowrouzi said lightheartedly. "We also have a couple of firms on the Niagara side working for us."

The Piper Cheftain used for the service has a six-passenger executive or eight-passenger commuter configuration.

Flights depart Niagara District Airport at 8:30 a.m. and 6 p.m., travelling to Billy Bishop Toronto City Airport, known as Toronto Island Airport.

Flights from Toronto to Niagara depart at 7 a.m. and 4:30 p.m.

It costs $85 ($80 after tax) for a one-way ticket and $159 for roundtrip ($180 after tax).

The airline has been seeing its lowest numbers on the 7 a.m. flights from Toronto to Niagara, but has not yet made any determination about whether that time will be adjusted.

Historic white elephant trolley remains unearthed.

FIND from A3

Although plans originally called for one lane to remain open while the work was underway, the south end of Niagara Street was closed to traffic entirely earlier last week.

In an e-mail, Welland's manager of engineering services Erik Nale said the closure was done at the request of the Ontario Ministry of Labour.

He said the ministry reviewed plans for the construction of underground infrastructure services between Riverbank and Merritt streets, and determined that allowing any traffic to through the area "poses a significant risk to both passing motorists and construction workers."

Vehicles are instead being detoured to Prince Charles Drive.

Workers at the construction site said they were approached by a Niagara Street resident who told them about the significance of the railway ties.

The workers said they suspected the trolley track remnants might still be hidden below the pavement when the project first began, but they didn't know for certain until the first of the old wooden ties emerged from the excavation.

Hundreds of the railway ties now are piled up on the land that was once home to Welland Iron and Brass, along the banks of the Welland River.

LOCAL NEWS

Warm welcome to giraffes

ZOO from A5

Clearance has been given to Safari Niagara to allow Ziphora and Moses full access within the entire giraffe houses.

The reticulated giraffe, also known as the Somali giraffe, is a species of giraffe native to Somalia, southern Ethiopia, and northern Kenya. There are about 8,660 living in the wild.

Bouw said the pair are spending time getting to know Rainbow, a 14-year-old reticulated giraffe.

Members of the public are asked for patience and understanding as the giraffes may not be featured in their usual exhibits while they adjust to their new surroundings. While the giraffes get to know each other, and "acclimate to their new setting," stimuli can be an overwhelming experience for the sensitive giraffe species.

"At this time, the giraffes will be viewable, but they will not be available to be fed by the public," she said.

Guests are encouraged to observe the animals from a distance as all three giraffes will be held in the paddock near the zoo's barn.

MICHAEL DIBATTISTA/POSTMEDIA NETWORK

Ziphora, is one of two new reticulated giraffe yearlings at Safari Niagara in Stevensville.

So far, Bouw said guests have commented on their excitement about the arrival of Ziphora and Moses.

"The public has been very excited.

As they are leaving, they are coming back to the admissions gate and commenting to staff how they got the chance to see them and how cute they are."

GTA looking to improve operations

AIRPORT from A3

Those changes will be determined through discussions with customers, he added.

There has been some interest expressed in seeing the airport right to "open up" after a 30 minutes earlier, at 8 a.m., to give passengers "some breathing room to get into the city to their meetings," he said. "That's the only change we might see in the short term."

Nowrouzi called customer service the airline's No. 1 priority.

As a result, responding and adapting to customer feedback is key, he said.

"In the new year we'll be looking at the service, what we need to change, how we can make it better and (whether) we need to expand."

Airport commission chairman Gary Murphy said the group is pleased with how the service has been progressing. He felt some of the initial flights were little light on passengers, but that "loads are picking up."

"With a little bit more marketing, I think it will really do well."

Airport management, he said, plans to work with the airline to introduce company officials to local tourism associations and other relevant businesses and agencies.

Murphy said there has been near daily communication between the commission and the airline to ensure the operation runs smoothly.

"We have a really strong vested interest in this becoming a success. We're not passive, by any stretch of the imagination."

After about a month of operations, the commission intends to conduct an analysis of the service's clientele.

"We want to know who those passengers are, where they're coming from and what the purpose is for their travel. We want to know the demographics."

Congratulations Dr. Brendan Macioceta, BHSc, D.C.

Mr. and Mrs. John and Sandra Macioceta of Port Colborne are pleased to announce the graduation from their son, Brendan Macioceta from the School of Chiropractic Program at D'Youville University in Buffalo New York on May 22, 2016. Also congratulating Brendan are his proud grandparents Frank and Gabriella Biondi of Port Colborne, and Paola Biondi who is also of Port Colborne. Dr. Macioceta completed his undergraduate degree in Health Sciences from the University of Western Ontario in 2012 prior to entering the D'Youville Chiropractic program. Congratulations on your hard work and fantastic achievement!
